was a missionary previous to the war, in the darkest part of Africa. He was sent to France as Chaplain to a regiment of African natives. His book "Standing By" is one of the most notable interpretations of the religious phases of the war in print.

He saw that a contented backboneless, conventional religion, which had permitted war, offered no armor against the flood of passion let loose by war. It is this which made his novel necessary; a story of love, poignantly beautiful, strong, sincere, and never trivial, a book worth reading, worth pondering over.
